From The Editor

WALDO MALAN

We truly find ourselves in unprecedented times in the history of earth! What has always just been the stuff movies are made off has suddenly become a reality. Big Brother has shut us down!

To think that one small virus has caused a global pandemic, crashed economies, shut down travel between countries, caused hundreds of thousands of death and essentially locked people all over the world into isolation. Never in my wildest dreams!

It is very easy to slip into a state of despair and even give in to depression, but we have the Good News to sustain us!

Jesus said, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon Me, because He has anointed Me to preach the gospel to the poor; He has sent Me [to heal the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives and recovery of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed; to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord." (Luke 4:18-19)

Now look at Paul's letter to the young preacher Timothy, "Preach the Word of God urgently at all times, whenever you get the chance, in season and out, when it is convenient and when it is not. Correct and rebuke your people when they need it, encourage them to do right, and all the time be feeding them patiently with God's Word." (2 Timothy 4:2).

The fact is that despair is all around us, but the truth is that Jesus can make a difference! The fact is that the world is in uncertain uproar, but the truth is that Jesus is the Prince of Peace. Let us not fall into the fear-ensconced trap of the enemy, but let us stand on the Word of the Lord and bring hope and peace to the world.

On Episode 107 of the Faith Today Live broadcast, Mark T Barclay encouraged us to pick up our own stones, just like David did when he went out to confront Goliath. Our five stones are:

The Name of Jesus
The Blood of Jesus
The Word of God
The Armor of God
Praying in the Holy Ghost

Be encouraged! God will see you through!

Keep God's Word Alive

ANDRÉ & JENNY ROEBERT

The Holy Spirit is the One Who teaches us and makes the Word come alive inside of us to produce the spiritual force of faith. But, how do we put faith to work? Mark 11:23-24 says, “Truly I tell you, whoever says to this mountain, Be lifted up and thrown into the sea! and does not doubt at all in his heart but believes that what he says will take place, it will be done for him. For this reason I am telling you, whatever you ask for in prayer, believe (trust and be confident) that it is granted to you, and you will [get it].”

According to this portion of scripture, faith goes to work for us the moment we wholeheartedly believe the Word and speak it from the conviction of our hearts.

It's more than just agreeing with the Word, we must really believe it as the final authority in our lives - not doubting it at all. Then, when our words are consistently in agreement with God's and don't contradict what His Word says, they become carriers of that faith. Like conveyer belts, our words carry the conviction of our hearts and begin to speak those things that are not currently in the natural, as if they are. That's how convinced we are of God's promises being more real than what we see in the natural. Faith believes what it perceives in the spirit, before it sees it in the natural.

God is the best example of this in Hebrews 11:3. It says He spoke the worlds into existence by His own words of faith. Since we are recreated in His image, and have been made the righteousness of God in Christ Jesus, we can believe His Word, speak it into our world, and see it become our reality.

We want to encourage you to take time to let this all sink deep into your heart and mind. It's easy to feel disappointed when the things you're believing God to do for you just don't seem to happen. We are often asked by people why God doesn't hear their prayers. They feel so despondent in their Christian walk, because it seems that all their heartfelt requests fall on deaf ears.

We have already discovered that faith is not a whimsical, wishful state of mind, but a spiritual force that can reach into the spiritual realm and bring whatever God has promised us, into our natural reality.

Faith is the way God designed for us to live as people who overcome in this life. It's the way we can appropriate every freedom and promise Jesus paid the price for when He went to the cross. It's the only way we can enjoy the benefits of personally knowing God, and it's how we live in continuous victory over our enemy, the devil.

We also learnt that we increase our faith by meditating on the Word of God, believing what it says as our final authority, and being sure to keep our words and conversations in line with it.

The important key is to never change what we say to align with our circumstances, but rather keep our words true to what God's Word says. Even if situations appear to stubbornly stay the same - we must never speak contrary to what the Word says. No circumstance has ever, nor will ever change what God says. It's His Word that remains forever the same, and has the power to change every fact of our circumstances, and making them line up with His Word.

"take a hold of whatever God's Word has promised"

This means the problem with our faith not working is not on God's side. His Word ALWAYS produces what it says. Isaiah 55:11 says, "So shall My word be that goes forth out of My mouth: it shall not return to Me void [without producing any effect, useless], but it shall accomplish that which I please and purpose, and it shall prosper in the thing for which I sent it."

The Essential Framework For Discovering Your Calling

ADDISON BEVERE

Purpose. Calling. Destiny. These are some of the most intimidating words in the entire dictionary. And there are some big words out there. Like floccinaucinihilipilification - try reading that in front of your English class. Talk about scary.

As a teenager, I used to cringe when adults would use “the big three”: purpose, calling, and destiny. Often people would ask me, “Young man, what is your calling?” I would usually think, I am only seventeen years old. I don’t even know how to live on my own yet. How in the world am I supposed to know what my calling is?

Of course a response like this was never an option; what kind of seventeen-year-old with a “real destiny” would ever utter such a thing? When faced with these daunting traps of syntax, I would typically slither my way out by responding, “Whatever God has for me.” At the time I believed this was a copout. But now, thirteen years later, I can see that my answer was actually pretty right on. (Yes! Score one for the seventeen-year-olds!)

The truth is only God knows the full story of our lives; so trust, mystery, and faith will always be our companions on the quest to purpose - and God likes it that way. If we knew the magnitude and the significance of His plans for our lives, we would mess them up in our futile efforts to actualize His divine will (which, let’s be honest, is far above our finite levels of comprehension). So trust is a must in this journey with God.

You might be thinking, I know I should trust God, but what does that look like in regards to my calling? That’s a great question! And here is where I go to the ultimate manual of purpose, the eternal Word of God - a very trustworthy source - where we find three important truths:

The Verses:

“For I know the plans I have for you,” says the Lord. “They are plans for good and not for disaster, to give you a future and a hope.” - Jeremiah 29:11

The Lord directs the steps of the godly. He delights in every detail of their lives. Though they stumble, they will never fall, for the Lord holds them by the hand. - Psalm 37:23-24

You saw me before I was born. Every day of my life was recorded in your book. Every moment was laid out before a single day had passed. - Psalm 139:16

The Three Truths:

- God has an amazing plan for your life.
- God sees the full scope of your life (knows every detail of it).
- God will always be there for you, helping you every step of the way.

Your belief in these three truths is paramount in your discovery of purpose. Why? Because these truths are the framework for everything God will do in and through you. However, if the enemy of your soul can cause you to doubt these things, then he can attack the validity and necessity of your existence. (And if you don't believe you are worthy of a purpose, then you will never discover what yours is.)

The knowledge and application of these core truths will give you the strength to trust in God. And as you trust Him, He will begin to reveal the wonders and mysteries of your calling. Why? Because trust is the evidence of faith, and everything is received from God through faith.

"God knows the full story of our lives"

Which of these three truths is the hardest for you to believe? Why?

Obedience By Faith

ANGUS BUCHAN

In 1 John 4:20 (NKJV) the Word of God says: "If someone says, 'I love God,' and hates his brother, he is a liar; for he who does not love his brother whom he has seen, how can he love God whom he has not seen?"

The hardest place to be a Christian is often in your own home. Why? Because your family knows you intimately! All of us are very good at putting on masks when we go out to visit or if we deal with the public; but when we are at home the real person comes out. In my own life I have found that the devil will attack me many times in relationships that are meaningful and very precious to me.

You see, my friend, the devil cannot cause me to stumble when people whom I don't really know don't like me for whatever reason. However, when I have an altercation with someone who is very close to me - a member of my family or a very dear friend - that is extremely painful for me; this causes a lot of anxiety, pain and suffering. Of course the evil one knows that. Remember: he has got no power whatsoever; the only thing he can do is tell lies. He is the deceiver of the brethren and is the father of all lies. So he will kill us with his lies. We need to guard our relationships with everything that we have. 2 Corinthians 10:4 tells us: "For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal (fleshly) but mighty in God for pulling down strongholds."

We need to guard our minds with everything we have.

If a loved one forgets to greet us because they didn't see us, or they are in a rush, we must not allow that to become a mountain in our lives. If a loved one forgets our birthday, that is no reason to have strife in the home. There could be a very valid reason why it happened. It is the so-called little foxes that seem to spoil the vine.

In my travels around the world I am noticing the family, like never before, is under fire. We really need to love each other, because Jesus says in 1 John 4:18 (NKJV): "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casts out fear, because fear involves torment. But he who fears has not been made perfect in love." It is love that will keep our family together - the love of Christ. Remember none of us is without fault, so we need to stop trying to take the speck out of our loved one's eye when there is a plank in our own eye. We need to talk through issues. One of the biggest stumbling blocks in keeping families apart is a lack of communication; and then of course, the devil steps in when we don't speak. He puts all kinds of thoughts into our minds. "Your loved one does not love you anymore because they have not spoken to you" - and that is not the case at all. So we need to confront issues as they arise; that keeps our relationships healthy.

May God bless you richly as you guard your family literally with your very lives. The Bible says in Mark 8:36: "For what will it profit a man if he gains the whole world, and loses his own soul?" Dare we ask: "what does it profit a man when he becomes the richest man in the world, but has no one to share it with because his family can't put up with him any longer?" Let us put our priorities in order: first God; then our husband or wife; then our children; and then the rest.

"We need to guard our minds with everything we have"

Are You Aware Of What God Is Doing?

JOHN BEVERE

Secrets are reserved for close companions. Most of us disclose our deepest and most intimate thoughts and feelings with trusted friends. The Lord is no different. The Scriptures reveal, “For the Lord God does nothing without revealing his secret to his servants the prophets” (Amos 3:7 ESV).

God has secrets and He is looking for some friends to share them with. It is an open invitation to all those who desire friendship with Him. David, known as a man after God's heart, revealed, “There's a private place reserved for the lovers of God, where they sit near him and receive the revelation-secrets of his promises” (Psalm 25:14 TPT).

The private place David speaks of is God's presence. It's in the presence of God where the secrets of God are made known. God is working out His plans and wants to talk with you about it. Jeremiah posed the question:

For who among them has stood in the council of the Lord to see and to hear his word, or who has paid attention to his word and listened? (Jeremiah 23:18 ESV)

The Hebrew word for “council” in this verse is cowd, which means “a session,” or “a company of persons in close deliberation.” It implies intimacy, as in secret consultation. By comparison, our English word “council” refers to a group of people called together for discussion or advice.

Just as there are earthly councils of men and women who come together to discuss and advise the best plan of action for their respective spheres of influence - there is also a council that takes place in Heaven, presided over by God Almighty, where we can hear and receive the counsel and secrets of the Lord. By His personal invitation, we can join the conversation and enter God's “hearing room” to listen to the deliberation of His council in order to take part in what God is doing on the earth.

A prime example of this type of friendship is found between God and Abraham in Genesis 18:16-33. God's intention was to destroy the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah because of the sinfulness of the people; but before He did, He revealed His plan to Abraham, saying, “Shall I hide from Abraham what I am doing?” (Genesis 18:27, NKJV). The conversation went back and forth until an agreement was reached that if there were at least ten righteous people found, the Lord would spare the city. There were less than ten righteous people found and God destroyed the city - sparing only Abraham's nephew Lot, his wife, and their two daughters. Because Abraham was part of the conversation, he interceded for his family and they were rescued from the destruction.

This is another reason the Lord shares His secrets with us - that we may intercede for others. God is not removed from the affairs of mankind. He's acquainted with our ways and hears our cries. As co-labourers with Him on the earth, we have a significant role in bringing heaven's rule and reality to our world. All this begins by walking closely with God - listening to and obeying His voice.

BEYOND ADVENTURE

XTREME GAP YEAR

EXPERIENCE LIFE

ON AN EXTREME LEVEL

FULL & HALF YEAR OPTIONS NOW AVAILABLE !

JANUARY - JUNE | JULY - NOVEMBER

beyondadventure.co.za
bagapyear.com

THE CONCEPT OF 'EXTREME EDUCATION' WAS DESIGNED TO PROVIDE A CHALLENGING ENVIRONMENT FOR YOUNG PEOPLE TO DISCOVER AND DEVELOP THEIR LEADERSHIP POTENTIAL

WHAT MAKES YOUR PROGRAMME EXTREME AND ADVENTUROUS?

We offer students a wide range of extreme activities to participate in such as: sky diving, bungee jumping, scuba diving, mountain biking, abseiling, kayaking etc.

WHAT IS THE VALUE OF A GAP YEAR PROGRAMME?

A gap year gives young people time to reflect on what they think would be the college/varsity or career choice best suited to their needs. It allows them to clarify their interests and become aware of their strengths and weaknesses.

We also believe a gap year allows them to take advantage of learning that takes place outside the classroom and apply these skills in real life situations, within a protected environment. It is imperative that youths experience life in communities different from those in which they have been living and our extreme gap year programme offers them this experience. We further believe that gap years allow students to learn about a variety of careers before making a critical decision and to gain maturity, initiative and resourcefulness, all valuable life skills.

WHAT OUTCOME DO YOU HOPE IS ACHIEVED IN EVERY STUDENT'S LIFE ONCE COMPLETING YOUR PROGRAMME?

Our programme is designed to meet, challenge and grow the complete individual, body, soul and spirit, as we train tomorrow's leaders today. Our desire is for the young person to have fun and 'discover themselves' as they are developed into a person with vision and purpose. We endeavour to take boys and girls and to mould them into young men and women that will have a positive influence on our society and the world.

DESCRIBE HOW THE PROGRAMME WORKS - WHEN IS YOUR INTAKE, HOW LONG DOES IT LAST AND HOW MUCH DOES IT COST?

The Beyond Adventure Extreme Leadership Gap Year Programme was launched in 2001. We are located 100 kilometres north east of Port Elizabeth in Alicedale. We are situated close to some of the great game reserves such as Addo Elephant Park and Shamwari. Our programme runs from the last week in January till November. The students are accommodated in rooms where they will learn to live with three other students. Cost enquires and further info can be obtained from our offices as well as our website www.beyondadventure.co.za, under the download section.

WHAT MAKES YOUR PROGRAMME UNIQUE AS OPPOSED TO OTHER GAP YEAR COURSES?

We believe the Beyond Adventure concept to be unique in South Africa. The concept of 'Extreme Education' was designed to provide a challenging environment for young people to discover and develop their leadership potential. Leadership deals with direction, vision, purpose and principles and our leadership programme focuses on building the students up, making them aware of other cultures, helping them with emotional bank account building and strengthening them as individuals functioning in a group context.

Most importantly, we run a programme that is founded on Biblical principles with Jesus Christ as the foundation stone.

Getting What You Really Want In Life

JOYCE MEYER

The things we pursue in life have everything to do with our joy and fulfillment. While it's certainly not wrong to desire success, a better paying job, or a higher standard of living, the Bible tells us that seeking after "things" and making them our priority will make us miserable in the end!

Seek is a strong word. It means "to crave, pursue, to make sacrifices to get, to go after with all of your strength and all of your heart."

I encourage you to take a moment and ask yourself, "What am I seeking? What am I spending most of my time talking about? Where do I invest the majority of my energy?"

Romans 14:17 (NIV) says, "For the kingdom of God is not a matter of eating and drinking, but of righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Spirit."

In other words, the Kingdom of God is not about us simply trying to get what we want. Instead, it's about seeking a relationship with God and experiencing true Kingdom benefits. It's about having a greater understanding of His righteousness (our right standing with Him through Jesus Christ), His peace and His joy in our lives. Only then will we find what we are truly looking for.

In the beginning of our relationship with God, it's all about us ...and for a while, this is fine. I believe this is where we all start. We come to Him with our list of needs and desires. We bring Him our problems and want Him to fix everything. But eventually, the time comes for us to grow and mature.

I remember coming to a point in my life when I had a lot of "things" but realized I simply wasn't happy. After praying and asking the Lord what was wrong, He spoke to my heart and said, "Joyce, you are too shallow - it's time to go out into the deep."

That was difficult to hear, but I knew exactly what He meant. It was time for me to start living the "deeper life" - to begin seeking God for who He is and not just what He can do for me.

You see, shallow Christians want the fruit, but they are not concerned about the roots. I love Isaiah 37:31. It says, "...Take root below and bear fruit above."

Just look at nature. Large trees with thick, full branches have a massive underground root system that spreads both deep and wide. Without this support system, the tree could never weather a storm.

In the same way, we must develop deep spiritual roots before we can truly enjoy the big, full life God has intended for us. This includes cultivating a relationship with the Lord, finding out what He says about us in His Word, and becoming rooted and grounded in His love.

"Take delight in the Lord, and he will give you the desires of your heart"

Many times, we come at it the wrong way. We want to have all of the benefits - more privileges, more influence, more "stuff" - before we ever establish our roots. But without a strong foundation in God, these things can actually hurt us more than they can help. And without deep roots, we'll never endure the storms of life.

The truth is, the Lord is more concerned about your inner life than your outer life. He knows that when you are spiritually strong on the inside, then you are able to handle any situation that arises in your life on the outside.

I think sometimes we're afraid that if we stop chasing after all of the "things," we'll never get what we want in life. But the exact opposite is true...

Psalm 37:4 says, "Take delight in the Lord, and he will give you the desires of your heart."

As we place our focus on God, we not only begin to experience His righteousness, peace and joy... but He even causes our desires to be in line with His plan and what's best for our lives.

Years ago, while I was praying (probably for something I wanted), the Lord spoke a life-changing truth to my heart. He said, "Joyce, seek My face and not My hand. If you seek My face, My hand will always be open."

Matthew 6:33 says it this way: "But seek first His kingdom and His righteousness, and all these things will be given to you as well."

I can tell you from experience that when you make God your number-one priority, He not only fills your life with His amazing peace, joy, and satisfaction, but He also gives you the desires of your heart.

Make a decision today to pursue the One who matters most. Seek God for who He is and make your relationship with Him a priority. As you do, I believe you'll discover what you've been looking for all along.

Putting Love Back To Sleep When It Was Awakened In The Wrong Manner

LISA BEVERE

Love needs to rest so it can awaken again later, not in the form of lust, but in a truer and more beautiful state. This additional rest allows it to awaken at the appropriate hour, renewed and more powerful in pleasure and passion. Then we will not be disappointed, abandoned, or under torment. We want to put lust to death, and in its place resurrect love without a trace of guilt or shame to rob from her beauty. How can this all be accomplished?

The process is not unlike how a restless or frightened child is lulled back to sleep. When my boys were little and were frightened, injured, ill, or overly excited, I drew them close to quiet them. To do this, I rocked them, or laid down next to them in their beds, or if the hour was late, I brought them into my own bed. Regardless of the method, I wanted them to know I was near. Once they were comfortable and in my arms, I listened to their fears. The story of an injury or the terror of a nightmare was shared while I stroked their hair or traced their features. When they were spent of their burdens or I could sense the further telling of them would no longer help, I began speaking back to them in a whisper of a voice to quiet their excited tones.

In these whispers I reaffirmed God's love and mine and reminded them of His faithful protection. Then

I spoke truths of greater power and painted images of greater beauty than the frightening shadows of lies and fear. I sang lullabies until I could tell by their breathing they were in a deep sleep.

These aspects of a mother's tender response to her frightened children are drawn from the heart of God. They are but a small reflection of His desire to comfort our storms and chase away our fears. When we hurt, when we fail, when we are frightened, God wants us to draw near, never away. As His children, we are invited to draw near into His arms of safety and love. There He will give us visions of beauty capable of putting us again at ease and rest.

I love the safety of this image of a Father tenderly rocking His daughter back to sleep so she can rest and heal. I know you may be frightened that if you allow desire to return to sleep it may never be awakened or fulfilled again. These are haunting questions: If I let this area of my life go, will I ever see it again? Will God really meet these needs in my life? If I yield to God now, will He be faithful to fulfill me by His promise of a future hope?

I believe with all my heart that your Father God wants to do the following for you by His Spirit:

- draw you near
- wash every trace of guilt and shame from you
- lay aside your fears by addressing them in the light of truth
- give you a hope and a future
- rock you until your storm is calmed
- return you to rest
- restore the dream in your heart

Once after I spoke on some of these issues, a beautiful young girl came up to me for prayer. She confessed that she had compromised areas of purity to gain the affection and attention of boys, and she didn't know how to recover herself and return to her dream. I held her in my arms and prayed with her, and while I was praying, I heard God whisper a promise for her. He promised that as she pressed into Him, with songs of worship and praise, He would in turn sing over her a lullaby to put to rest what had been awakened deep within her.

I was overwhelmed by the love in His tone. There was no shame or condemnation in His words, only a promise to sing away her fears, guilt, and shame. As she drew near, He promised to draw her to Himself and hide her safely in the shadow of His wing. This Scripture gives us a beautiful image of His tenderness:

"The Lord your God is with you, he is mighty to save. He will take great delight in you, he will quiet you with his love, he will rejoice over you with singing." - Zephaniah 3:17

This image speaks multitudes. He isn't aloof and unapproachable, but quickly comes to our aid

"We are invited to draw near into His arms of safety and love"

and with His great might saves us. He doesn't reject or condemn us when we cry out in fear of helplessness. He delights in quieting His children just as any mother considers it a joy to comfort her own. But there are limits to a mother's comfort . . . my might only goes so far, but His is limitless, like His love. The depth of it quiets us, and then He sings to us. It is such a compelling image that it invites each of us to draw near and let Him quiet the storms we cannot. In this place we are allowed to rest, and soon we find ourselves joining Him in song.

In A Cluttered World, Do You Stand Out?

PHIL COOKE

In a world of interchangeable people, you need to stand out. Unions played a vital role earlier in the 20th century, helping unite workers and speak as one voice to industrial corporations. Unions helped create safer coal mines, drive better regulations in the workplace, and create strong wages and benefits. But today, unions are on the wane, because the flip side of unionization is building interchangeable workers. In today's economy there are millions of interchangeable workers, but what we need are people who stand out.

People who get noticed. People who do remarkable things.

In the book "Ignore Everybody" writer and cartoonist Hugh MacLeod puts it this way: "A Picasso always looks like Picasso painted it. Hemingway always sounds like Hemingway. A Beethoven symphony always sounds like a Beethoven Symphony. Part of being a master is learning how to sing in nobody else's voice but your own."

What's your voice?

For MacLeod, it was the moment he discovered drawing on the backs of business cards. But it's not the form or the platform; ultimately it's the calling, the voice, the purpose.

The question becomes, what's your unique voice? What's your purpose for living? What were you put on the earth to accomplish?

If You Have A Dream – Then Just Do Something

PHIL COOKE

No, this isn't an ad for Nike. But I was listening to an interview with a health expert and she said that (short of periods of massive famine, war, or disease) although we know more about health and well-being than at any time in history, we're still pretty much the most overweight and unhealthy group that's ever lived. The reason? She said that today, a significant group of people don't get into shape because they're waiting for the perfect situation.

They wait on a health club membership, until they get married, have more time, adjust their schedule, get the right workout clothes, a new job – whatever. They think they have to get all the stars aligned, but until they do, they don't do anything. But the truth is: to have better health, all we have to do is start with something small. Start walking, take the stairs, eat less, get a check-up – little things make a huge difference.

I immediately thought about how many people I know who have a great dream, but are waiting until exactly the right time or situation. They want to produce a movie, write a book, launch a company, have a family – whatever. But while they wait for everything to be perfect, they don't do anything at all.

My advice? Just do something. Start small. It takes remarkably little to start a project or dream moving forward. Write a page a day, take a class, start calling, network, schedule an interview – start doing something.

Even the biggest project can be broken down into steps, and what better time to begin than right now?

What Are You Willing To Risk To Inspire Change?

PHIL COOKE

I was in Greensboro, North Carolina a few years ago and visited the International Civil Rights Center and Museum. Located in an old F.W. Woolworth retail store, it's the original site where in 1960, four African-American college freshmen sat down at the store's "whites only" lunch counter. I was in first grade in nearby Charlotte when it happened. While it wasn't the first "sit in," it was remarkable for sparking similar nonviolent protests that spread like wildfire throughout the South.

As more and more sit-ins happened, people started boycotting stores with whites-only lunch counters. Sales in those stores dropped by a third, prompting the entire Woolworth chain to eventually relent and desegregate.

Two things from that incident are worth remembering:

1. It was four college freshmen. They had no influence, or financial or political backing – just a commitment to see change happen. It doesn't always take an expensive campaign or great experience to change the culture, just vision, passion, and a little nerve.

2. They took a risk, and it inspired others to do the same. Sometimes you might be all it takes to inspire a movement. It may be risky and dangerous, but when others see a hero, courage becomes contagious.

What situation are you facing right now that only you can fix, and how many others would your actions inspire?

Jump Into The Field Of Faith

KENNETH COPELAND

"Lord, increase our faith!"

That was the cry of Jesus' first 12 disciples... and it's been the heart cry of untold millions of believers ever since. And why shouldn't it be?

Again and again in the New Testament we see people receive miracles from God...according to their faith. We hear Jesus say, "If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed...nothing shall be impossible unto you" (Matthew 17:20). We read the words of the apostle John who wrote, "...this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith" (1 John 5:4).

The Bible makes it absolutely clear: Faith can overcome anything in this world order. There is literally no limit to what faith can do.

Why then aren't more Christians enjoying the limitless blessings that faith can produce in their lives? Primarily because we've limited ourselves to this natural realm. We've spent most of our time looking at the things we can see with our physical eyes, and believing what our natural senses tell us. We haven't cultivated the vast field of faith that's available to us.

You might say we've fenced ourselves in by unbelief.

Faith Gets the Job Done

Jesus left no doubt about that. In Luke 17, when the disciples asked Him to increase their faith, He said, "If ye had faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye might say unto this mulberry tree, Be thou plucked up by the root, and be thou planted in the sea; and it should obey you" (verse 6).

In other words, if you have just a little bit of faith, use it like a seed. Plant it in a situation with the words of your mouth. Then keep believing and that faith will grow and work in that ground until it becomes great enough to get the job done.

That's not a message Jesus preached just once. He preached it again and again. It's so vital that in Mark 4, where He taught it in the greatest depth through the parable of the sower, He said that if we don't understand that message we won't be able to understand anything about the way the kingdom of God works on the earth. Then He added: "Whereunto shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it? It is like a grain of mustard seed, which, when it is sown in the earth, is less than all the seeds that be in the earth: But when it is sown, it groweth up, and becometh greater than all herbs, and shooteth out great branches; so that the fowls of the air may lodge under the shadow of it" (verses 30-32).

What's more, Jesus didn't just say that faith, once sown, grows up and becomes greater; He demonstrated it. When He cursed the fruitless fig tree by saying, "No man eat fruit of thee hereafter for ever" (Mark 11:14), He planted His faith by speaking words to that tree.

To the natural eye, it looked like nothing happened right away. But Jesus' faith went to work immediately in the roots of that tree and it kept working until the whole tree withered - leaves and all. When He and His disciples passed by that tree 24 hours later, it had dried up from the roots. It took a day to finish the job but, in the end, faith got it done!

Don't Just Scatter the Seed...Plant It

"Yeah, but that was Jesus," somebody might say. "Nobody else can operate in that kind of faith."

On the contrary, Jesus commanded us all to operate in it. He said, “Have faith in God.” (Or as some translations put it, Have the God kind of faith.) “For verily I say unto you, That whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he saith” (Mark 11:22-23).

According to Jesus, if you're a whosoever (and that covers just about everybody) you can and should have the mountain-moving faith of God.

How do you grow that kind of faith?

You start by planting God's Word in your heart because “faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God” (Romans 10:17).

You can't just casually scatter the seed of the Word on the top of the ground where the devil can steal it from you, either. You must plant it deeply and securely in your spirit. The best way to do that is by obeying the instructions in Proverbs 4:20-24: “My son, attend to my words; incline thine ear unto my sayings. Let them not depart from thine eyes; keep them in the midst of thine heart. For they are life unto those that find them, and health to all their flesh. Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life. Put away from thee a froward mouth, and perverse lips put far from thee.”

It's Not Always Easy

If you truly want to obey those instructions, you must decide - once and for all - to make God's Word the final authority in your life. You must determine that regardless of what happens in your life, you will live by the Word.

I'll never forget the day Gloria and I did that. It was back in 1967 when we first started out in the ministry. We were attending some of Brother Kenneth Hagin's meetings and we heard him talk about the commitment he'd made years before to honour God's Word as the ultimate authority in his life. He had determined early in his ministry that he would make whatever adjustments necessary to make his lifestyle fit the Word.

Gloria and I went home that day and said, “That's what we're going to do, too.” So we sat down at our little table, took Communion and said to the Lord, “From now on, we'll believe whatever Your Word says. We'll do whatever it says to do.” And we've done that ever since.

It hasn't always been easy. There have been times when I've been hurting...or mad...or disappointed about something and Gloria would remind me that the Word says in those situations we should praise the Lord. There have been times when I felt sick and somebody would remind me that the Word says that by Jesus' stripes we were healed.

I knew the Bible said those things but I didn't feel like acting on it right then. I felt like saying, “Hey, get out of my face with that! Stop telling me what I should do!” But then I'd remember the commitment we made back in 1967 and I'd make my flesh get in line.

The decision I made back then would take over and I'd say to myself, “Look here, flesh, I'm going to do what the Word of God says to do whether you like it or not. I am going to praise God. And I'm not allowing that ‘I'm sick,’ ‘I'm tired,’ ‘I'm broke,’ ‘I don't know what we're going to do’ junk to come out of my mouth again.”

Once you make that kind of quality decision, the door is open for you to go on to greater things. You'll be in position to put your flesh where it belongs, under the authority of the Word. You'll be ready to bust through the natural limitations that have kept you from enjoying the abundant blessings of God. Your heavenly Father is sure to be well pleased.

Garage Ingenuity

JOHN BALDONI

Garage (noun) 1. A dimly lit cave for cars 2. A haven for tools, trash bags, and unused sports equipment 3. A dingy and unkempt domain of bicycles and lawn mowers 4. A hotbed of creativity and invention.

In addition to sheltering automobiles, garages have housed some of the greatest technological inventions of the modern era and have birthed an assortment of widely popular rock 'n' roll bands.

If you're sitting at a computer, you've bumped into the products of garage-inspired genius. Steve Jobs and Steve Wozniak constructed the first Apple computer in a garage. HP can trace its corporate history back to a garage where Bill Hewlett and David Packard designed the oscillator. Google founders Sergei Brin and Larry Page took to the garage when building their search engine. You Tube can claim the garage as its place of origin, too.

Before performing in sold-out auditoriums, rock groups Buddy Holly and the Crickets, Nirvana, and Metallica jammed out in junk-filled garages. So many musical artists began their careers in garages that "garage rock" has become a recognized genre. Apple has even developed a software suite named GarageBand to help amateur musicians produce their work.

Do exhaust fumes fuel creativity and ingenuity or can lessons be learned from garage success stories? Featured on CIO.com, John Baldoni's article "Where's Your Garage?" encourages leaders to make space for invention with the following suggestions:

Build your own garage. Clear out space to exercise your creativity. Construct an area to spark original thinking and sound out your ideas. It may be a home office, the corner table of a local coffee shop, or an out-of-the-way conference room. The location isn't as important as long as you're able to carve out the intellectual space to look at your work from a fresh angle. As Baldoni writes, "The point is to focus your energy on thinking creatively about your business. What occurs may be an idea for a breakthrough product, or it may be a simple improvement that saves customers time and money." Building your garage may not spark an epic invention, but time in the garage can expose flaws in established patterns of thought, yield insights for systems enhancements, or generate original ideas for meeting complex challenges.

Allow risk in your garage. Dare to dream in the garage. Question long-held assumptions, and experiment with alternate ways of solving problems. Take comfort in the value of discarded ideas. Remember, the words of Thomas Edison: "I have not failed. I've just found 10,000 ways that won't work." When you enter the garage, feel the freedom to explore new terrain in your thinking.

Invite your boss into the garage. When you've landed upon a great idea and given shape to it, the next step is to share it with others. Introduce your concepts by inviting friends and family to your garage. Once you've had their feedback, revise or touch up the idea. Then, you'll be ready to bring your boss to the garage. Give your boss the opportunity to wrap his or her hands around your invention. Going the extra mile to familiarize your boss with your work will increase the likelihood of its application.

Bring your customer into the garage. "Customers can be your allies in innovation," writes John Baldoni. Invite them into your creative sphere and allow them to interact with your ideas. Why not have your end users pilot a new concept before developing it? Better to abort an innovation in the garage than to sink energy and costs into an unwanted product or service.

"Construct an area to spark original thinking and sound out your ideas."

Your Future Is Dazzling!

NICOLE CRANK

I love kids! I love how they get so excited when something good happens that they shake on the inside and the outside. Just a silly voice or tickle fingers and – all of a sudden – giggles, shrieks, and smiles that can light up a room!

To a “little” (that’s what I call the cuties that come up to my knees) something good can be as simple as petting a puppy (or kangaroo), running through a sprinkler fully clothed, or licking an ice cream cone.

“Growns” love ice cream, too. But we’re a little harder to impress. It doesn’t take much to dazzle a kiddo! So, what happened to us? What changed between childhood and adult life that makes us so much harder to delight?

Are we so worried about bills, the boss, why the kids aren’t happy, why we aren’t happy, that we’ve totally lost our ability to be amazed? Has that ice cream lost its taste? Do we think that worry actually makes our lives better?

God loves us in ways we can’t even fathom or imagine. He wants us to give all our cares to Him because He cares for us. God wants us to enjoy our lives, right now!

Be AMAZED by the sunset!

EXCITED by the ice cream!

ENCOURAGED by a baby’s smile!

THRILLED in knowing that God created you because He loves you so much, no matter what you’ve done!

IN AWE of His plans for you!

God wants to surprise and delight you with the DESIRES of your heart!

Be ASTONISHED by God! His future for you is DAZZLING!!!

Visionary Songwriters

PAUL BALOCHE

There have always been visionaries – those who catch sight of a new move of God before others see it. The visionary feels a great urge to DO that thing the Lord has shown him – and do it RIGHT NOW. So he starts out boldly and soon finds himself the target of sticks and stones hurled by those who don't understand. Stories abound about the church's resistance to new music forms.

The first monk who experimented with part-singing was excommunicated. J S Bach almost lost his job as a church musician because some thought his music was unsuitable. In 19th Century Scotland, Ira Stankey, evangelist D L Moody's great song leader, was vilified by some for writing "human hymns" with newly composed lyrics instead of new tunes for the Psalms of the Bible, and for having the audacity to draw attention to himself by singing them as solos.

Want some more? Take a look at this, Top Reasons for Opposing the New Music Trends, adapted from a statement directed against the use of hymns, in 1723:

1. It is too new, like an unknown language
2. It is not as melodious as the more established style

3. There are so many songs that it is impossible to learn them all
4. It creates disturbances and causes people to acting an indecent and disorderly manner
5. It places too much emphasis on instrumental music rather than godly lyrics
6. The lyrics are often worldly, even blasphemous
7. It is not needed, since preceding generations have gone to heaven without it
8. It monopolizes the Christian's time and encourages them to stay out late
9. These new musicians are young upstarts, and some of them are lewd and loose persons

Even in our own time, those of us who have tried to change church music have often been misunderstood. The way of the innovator has not always been easy. Of course, willingness to persevere in the face of criticism sometimes is laudable. Criticism does have some value as a gauge: if we're getting no criticism at all, we probably aren't accomplishing much that's fresh and new and powerful. On the other hand, if we're getting a lot - especially from those who have walked with the Lord much longer than we have - maybe we need to back up a bit and listen. There's always the possibility we've gone too far too fast and we're over the line. I remember when I first started leading worship at my church 16 years ago, there were some who complained that it sounded too much like a nightclub!

The Lone Ranger Bites the Dust

The secret to being a successful innovator in Christian music lies largely in attitude. We're talking now about true Spirit-led innovation, which means doing something new, not just blindly copying the latest rebellious fad and putting a Christian label on it, as some have done. The scripture tells us to "reprove the unfruitful works of darkness," not imitate them. If the visionary says to himself, "I'm gonna do my kind of music my way (for the Lord, of course) and if the church doesn't 'understand' my music, I'll do it without them; I don't need anyone but Jesus, anyway" - he will fail. He will be perceived as a maverick and his attempts won't be supported. The Lone Ranger will bite the dust. (Ephesians 5:11).

The truth is he does need the church. Whatever we do in ministry must not be on our own. This doesn't mean we have to ask permission from some church authority every time we write a song, but it does imply an accountability and a willingness to accept correction on matters of doctrine and practice. Carol Owens once said "As Christians we are all parts of the Body of Christ, and what we do in his name affects the world's perception of Christianity, reflects on the church and has implications wider than our own careers. A detached body part moving around by itself is the stuff of horror movies." On the other hand, if one goes about it in the right spirit, the visionary has the opportunity to bring the church along with him into an understanding of what God has shown him.

Of course, this takes patience. He'll need to slow down at times and wait for the church to catch up. Occasionally he'll take a leap that's just too broad for those without his vision to follow. When this happens, he will have to retrace his steps, rejoin his followers, maybe even apologize, do some explaining and teaching and then coax them along step by step until they too, see his vision. Besides patience he'll need love - a genuine love and respect for the church. He'll need to listen to wise counsel. He'll need forbearance - the Bible tells us to forbear with one another (this could be translated "put up with one another") And he will need faith - faith that if God has shown him something, God can also show it to others; and faith in the others, that they'll be able to see it when it's shown to them.

Thank God for the visionaries - the people who strive to see and hear and do the will of God even at the cost of being misunderstood, who put ministry first and are not corrupted by commercialism. They are on the cutting edge, and without them no real progress is ever made. Write on!
